

SFDS Parent Group on Diversity presents

Alumna Susie Cranston '92

“How Remarkable Women Lead: The Breakthrough Model For Work and Life”

What drives and sustains successful female leaders? How can we achieve job satisfaction and success? How can we help our children find their passions and consider their goals in life?

Cranston will share the results of over 85 interviews with successful women leaders from around the world. While the specifics of their lives vary, each of these women shares the goal of making a difference in her own communities as well as the wider world.

Learn about McKinsey's leadership model – a five part approach towards successful achievement in the workplace and in the communities where you spend time.

Monday, February 8th, 6:00-8:00pm

This event will be held in the SFDS library.

Childcare will be provided
